

Qi Integrated Collections Management Solution

qi-cms.com

Keepthinking®

Qi is a web-based, customisable database management system that integrates multiple types of information and activities into a single platform.

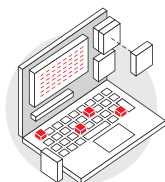

WHY CHOOSE QI?

Managing your entire website with qi means that your collection is at the heart of your public engagement, not in a vertical database as part of a separate website. You can relate objects to any type of content and search everything globally.

Qi currently helps over 200 organisations to manage, publish, engage and sell. Take control of batch updates, manage activities, workflows, tasks and events, create multilingual content and enjoy integrated, template-based reports.

“Qi provides Dia a content management system for our website and a collection management system on a single platform. It’s great not to hassle with an integration and with a small staff, we need the efficiencies gained by having all of this data in a single system.”
